A BUGBEAR AND A DANGER.

[N. Y. Graphic.]

Ex-Governor Tilden has on recent occasions expressed himself with his usual precision on what he regards the real danger to our institutions. In his view, "centralization" is our rock ahead, on which the Ship of State may at any time go to pieces. Mr. Tilden is by no means alone in this fear. It would indeed be remarkable if jealousy of the central government had entirely died out among those who have so long been debarred from administering it, and enjoying the distribution of its patronage. The Federal Government started on its journey with bitter enemies, and there has been no day since that start when it has not had enemies. To-day they are probably fewer in number than at any previous period in our history.

Politics should be practical. Politicians boast that they are practical men. Statesmen claim that they deal with the present, leaving historians to deal with the past and theorists to deal with the future. Centralization is not now an issue within the domain of practical politics. All Democrats naturally revere the name of Jefferson. He was their greatest man. Great as a theorist and writer he was also great as a practical politician. He saw that there would be a reaction in favor of trusting the masses of the people with power in an ostensibly Republican form of government. He was himself the head and front of the movement. It succeeded, and he became President of the United States. With Jefferson, "decentralization," State's rights, "opposition to royalty," were perfectly legitimate cries. Rightly or wrongly, he and his party charged the Federalists with a desire to create in this country a government kingly in all save name. That there was some ground for the charge cannot be denied. Centralization was no bugbear with Jefferson. It was no question of human politics, but a most practical issue on which political battles were lost and won.

At this day the cry about centralization has no meaning. Who complains about it? Only a few aged politicians who cannot forget the past and who have not vigor of mind enough to grasp the present. Andrew Jackson was a good Democrat. But he did not share in the feeling of jealousy of the Federal Government. In the twenty-eight years that separated his first inauguration from that of Jefferson, great changes had occurred in the country, and with the practiced eye of the keen politician and practical man he detected the logic of events and accepted it. Jackson did not make war upon an abstract idea—consolidation and centralization—but he made war upon a reality, the Bank of the United States. He regarded it as a monopoly, and to his mind all monopolies in private hands were undemocratic and should be destroyed. And the sturdy old Democrat destroyed that monopoly.

If the Democratic party had a Jackson or a Jefferson now as its leader, can there be a doubt as to what question he would select as vital in the current discussions of the day on which to plant his party, and with which to win or at least to deserve victory?

How "Old Hickory" would have thundered about the exactions of monopolies were he now writing messages or letters! In his day he saw that Jefferson had done his work well, and that if there had been any danger of royalty in this country there was none after forty years of Republican institution. He changed the tune. If there was ever any danger of centralization, there is none now. But there is a real danger of monopolies controlling our system of government, and it would seem that the more decentralized it is the easier prey it becomes to the greed and wiles of the monopolists. It would hardly be good government in which, under the plea of permitting every one to do as he pleased with his own, monopolists were permitted to tax and govern the community as they desired. The decentralizers are behind the age more than three-quarters of a century. To be abreast of the age they must be anti-monopolists. Centralization is a bugbear. Monopoly is a real and ever present danger.

Canals on the Planet Mars.

A curious discovery, made by Signor Schiaparelli, Director of the Royal Observatory at Milan, seems to start again that old and unanswerable question "Are the planets inhabited?" This Italian astronomer is one of the most assiduous watchers of the planet Mars. It was he who, in 1877-8, first detected the many dusky bands which traverse and sub divide the ruddy portions of the martial orb. Again, in 1879-80, when the position of the planet was favorable, he re-identified these strange lines; but during last January and February he has been able to observe and map out in more than twenty instances duplications of the dark streaks "covering the equatorial region of Mars with a mysterious network, to which there is nothing remotely analogous on the earth." The Italian astronomer has styled them "canals," for they bear the appearance of long sea-ways, dug through the martial continents, as if a manna for short cuts had seized the inhabitants of the planet, and everybody residing there had become an active M. de Lesseps.

Twenty Years in the Ministry.

The Winnemucca Silver State of yesterday says: "On several occasions during the Winter, entertainments of one character or another, but all good, have been gotten up by the ladies and young folks for the benefit of the church. The proceeds of those entertainments were tendered Rev. Mr. McKelvey by the ladies, but he generously declined to accept the money, and advised the ladies to apply it to paying off the indebtedness of the church. All the debts owing by the church here in town have been paid off, and now the ladies, feeling happy that the church is out of debt, have requested Mr. McKelvey to deliver a lecture, the proceeds to be devoted to paying his salary. He has decided to comply with their request, and on next Wednesday evening, at the M. E. Church, will lecture on 'Reminiscences and Experiences of Twenty Years in the Ministry.' Mr. McKelvey lectured at Reno during his pastorate, and the papers paid him some very high compliments on his success. Everybody of course will turn out to hear him, as he is deservedly popular as a citizen and a minister."

The Supreme Court yesterday morning rendered its decision in the case of the State ex rel. the Board of School Trustees of Virginia City vs. the Board of County Commissioners of Storey county, and ordered a peremptory mandamus to issue to compel the County Commissioners to transfer all the money in the Railroad Interest and Sinking Fund to the School Fund. The amount is $18,607 52. The Chronicle of last evening says the news of the decision was received in that city with general rejoicing. Taxpayers are particularly gratified, as by this the necessity of levying a special tax for school purposes next year will be obviated.

As anticipated in the dispatches, the House Committee on Commerce Thursday agreed to report a bill as a substitute for the Reagan bill, giving the regulation of the passenger and freight traffic of railroads to a commission. The supporters of the Reagan bill say that the plan recommended by the Commerce Committee falls far short of what is demanded, though it may suit the railroads admirably and will not prevent extortion and unfair rates for freight and travel. The friends of the Reagan bill think they can defeat the substitute, though they admit the chance of getting any bill at all through this session is very slight.

San Francisco has suffered already from the deadlock in the House. Had it not been for the deadlock the House Committee of Public Buildings would have agreed to the bill to erect a public building in San Francisco. As it was, the committee did not hold a meeting in the absence of a quorum, the same reason preventing a meeting from being held Friday. The committee will not try to get another meeting till Wednesday next.

The Carson Appeal says: "The most sanguine miners in the State are those of Como. They frequently visit Carson, telling big stories of their expectations." No person ever saw an old Comoite that was not hopeful for the future of Como—always talking about "when Como comes out." But Como never came out with the bullion.

It is understood that several persons were agreed upon as members of the Tariff Commission at a meeting of the Cabinet Friday, and the names will be sent to the Senate early next week. The remaining members are not to be reported until after the President's return from New York.

Ireland's Lord Lieutenant, replying to a deputation, earnestly hoped that the improvement already discernible in the condition of the country would continue, and that the application of the severer powers of the Repression bill would consequently be unnecessary.

Senator Cameron says: "We'll give them all the fight they want, even if we have to go down with flying colors as the 306 went down. They must be crushed." So far as the Senator is concerned there will be no compromise with the Independents.

Failures this week are 128 against 124 last week: Eastern States, 19; Western, 38; Southern, 33; Middle, 21; Pacific Coast and Territories, 9.

The old Columbia Hotel building, on Market street, San Francisco, is being demolished by a force of workmen, and in a few days this landmark will be a thing of the past.

The Chinese cargo of the steamer Strathairn has been vaccinated, also the crew.

ELECTION IN OREGON.

The Yreka Journal comments as follows upon the election in Oregon, which takes place on June 5th:

The election next month in Oregon is now affording a lively canvass in that State, especially for Congressmen, as the Democrats are banding all their energy to defeat the present popular member, M. C. George, who is a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket. They know he is a strong man before the people, hence their massing against him, not caring about the remainder of their ticket, except the Legislature, in view of the election of a U. S. Senator at next session, in place of Slater.

The people of Oregon will re-elect Mr. George, as he has done more for the State in Congress, than any member ever elected, and the ability and energy shown in his support of Congressman Page, of this State, to secure the passage of the Chinese bill, has acquired for him the greatest popularity, not only with his own party, but also with the Democrats. Besides being a man of great energy he is one of the leading statesmen in the lower House, having taken part in all the leading questions, and acting with eminent ability in some of the most important committees.

The superiority of Mr. George over the previous Democratic members is further evidenced by his appointment to the head and upon leading committees, while his Democratic predecessors were given the tail ends of inferior committees when the House was Democratic. During his five months' career, he has performed more hard work than all his Democratic predecessors combined, for in addition to his good work in aid of the Chinese bill and other Pacific Coast measures, he has secured the appropriation of $600,000 for Oregon, to pay Modoc war bonds, and make improvements in bays and rivers.

His opponent is a minister, and although probably a very good man, without any record of note, he will not command the full vote of his party, as Democrats generally are very much opposed to pulpit politicians, or at least make a great noise against preachers being nominated by Republicans. The Democrats have also nominated a Methodist Church South preacher for Governor, which makes the untried feel soured by the double shot of parsons. The Democratic Convention must have been hard up for candidates, or they would not have chosen preachers, since they made such a hue and cry against the Republicans nominating Mr. Hines a few years ago for Congress, who was badly defeated, while the most of the Republican ticket was elected, their baranques against preachers undoubtedly causing Mr. Hines' defeat.

A SINGULAR MANIFESTO.

General Rosecrans' Appeal to His Constituents for a Renomination.

The following manifesto has been furnished by General Rosecrans, with a request for its publication by the California press:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, May 26, 1882.

To my Constituents: I speak with unreserved frankness. Public interests of great moment, local and national, induced me to sacrifice my personal feelings and to place my name at your disposal to lead a forlorn hope in 1880. It is interests of greater national magnitude that make it my duty to ask you in turn to disregard personal and local preferences for the commonwealth. Without much aid from the Associated Press or the newspapers it will not be difficult for you to conclude that my brief services as your Representative has been honest and faithful, and for influence and standing with both parties in the House, it is safe to say your present Representative is at least as high as any of his predecessors. On the question of Chinese immigration he worked nobly. But I think it is the truth that it was the solid Democratic vote in the House which beat down all mutilation amendments and which passed both bills. The press did not give you this news, but I refuse to believe that you will allow wire-pullers and stabbers of reputations, by suggesting what is false and suppressing what is true, to prevent you doing justice. This requires that it should be publicly expressed by my renomination to Congress. I make this frank appeal, because I am not a politician, and am absent from you, and learn that combinations are at work which may betray the Democracy and the labor elements, and I trust that the pursuit of personal interests will not prevent their leaders from showing how to subordinate private interests to those of the whole country, and so act as to command the approval of their brethren throughout the Union.

W. S. ROSECRANS.

The Garfield Monument Fund.

The Committee of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland having in charge the raising of funds for the erection of a monument at Washington to the memory of General Garfield, publishes a card of thanks to the President for the alacrity with which he accepted the trust of becoming the depository of contributions on Decoration Day. The card adds: "If people respond with but a proportionate tithe of your kindly enthusiasm, we shall be enabled to erect a pile as shall rightly honor the glorious name of Garfield."

Mackay for Governor.

The latest political gossip coming from a very authentic source, is to the purport that John W. Mackay is coming home for no other purpose than to seek the gubernatorial nomination at the hands of the Republican party this Fall.—[Carson Appeal.]

"The Bug."

A St. Louis paper gives this name to a device by which gamblers have for withdrawing cards from the deck during the play, with which to make up the winning hand.

A QUIET HOUSE.

Our house is quiet now—so still,
All day I hear the ticking clock,
The hours are numbered clear and still;
Outside the people pass at will;
The sunshine sleeps upon the sill;
Our house is quiet now—so still!

But silence breaks my heart—I go
From hall to hall, from room to room,
What shall I seek to find, or know?
The brooding shadows come and grow,
Our dear mother's face—I miss it so
As through the lonely house I go.

Ah, blessed heaven, if I could hear
Sweet noises in the tranquil gloom,
Soft broken songs and laughter clear,
The joyous tumult glad and near,
That was to all of us so dear—
Ah, blessed heaven, if I could hear.

Ah, blessed heaven, if once, once more
My longing ear might hear
Her dear footsteps on the stair,
And grouped like roses at our door,
Her dear face that has gone before—
Ah, blessed heaven, if once, once more.

Our house and home are very still;
I watch the sun, I watch the rain—
The Spring days are cold and chill,
And years go on, perhaps death will
Life's broken promises fulfill—
Our house, our home, our hearts are broken still.

Small Yield of Comstock Mines.

[S. F. Bulletin.]

There is a tax on every ton of ore hoisted from the mines of Nevada. In the palmy days of the Comstock this tax yielded nearly enough revenue to run the State Government. During the past four years things have not been so prosperous in this line, and as a result the finances of that State are not in such good shape as they were. Salaries of officials go on all the same, no matter what the mines are doing. Vigilant Assessors watch every shaft and mill to see that no ore escapes the burden. A careful examination by a watchful officer shows that only seven mines out of scores on the Comstock lode produced any ore during the quarter ending March 31, 1882. The yield of these for the quarter was as follows:

	Tons.	Average.	Bullion.
Belcher.....	4,240	$15 03	$63,741
Crocker-Huffman.....	10,150	14 50	148,231
Crocker Imperial.....	1,083	12 25	13,053
Challenge.....	168	12 86	2,093
Confidence.....	109	12 86	1,402
Kentuck.....	434	14 63	6,361
Opah.....	1,417	13 94	22,546
Totals.....	37,802	$14 50	$358,265

This is probably the smallest quantity of ore raised from the Comstock mines for a similar period for twelve years. It is certainly the lowest, average yield. The above total is the gross value of the bullion produced. After allowing for the tax for the State and the discount on the silver contained in the bars, there is little left for expenses and not a dollar for the millions of capital supposed to be invested.

The exhausted condition of these mines is best illustrated by comparison. Such things are sometimes considered odious, and probably will call forth that expression now. A remembrance of what has been done will either add to the general disgust at the present poor returns, or will encourage those who have faith in the repetitions of history. The yield of the Comstock lode for the first quarter of the calendar compares as follows:

	Tons.	Average.	Bullion.
1877.....	157,200	7 12	$1,450,500
1878.....	134,800	7 77	1,038,000
1879.....	52,300	45	2,374,200
1880.....	49,100	33	1,615,500
1881.....	21,000	21	423,400
1882.....	17,800	14	258,300

The magnificent yield of the California and Consolidated Virginia mines is sadly missed. These mines did not turn out a ton of milling ore in the first quarter this year, nor have they been yielding anything since. Recently the Union Consolidated and Sierra Nevada have been producing some ore, which appear in the returns for the quarter ending June 30th. The south end mines are doing nothing this quarter, most of them being filled with water. An effort is now being made to drain those mines, so that the work of prospecting may be resumed, but it has not been very promptly or generally responded to.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES do not disperse the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but act directly on the inflamed parts, allaying irritation, give relief in Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Catarrh, and the Throat Troubles which Stagers and Public Speakers are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always given perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. Sold at 25c. a box everywhere.

Shaking Hands.

[Carson Tribune.]

As the time for handshaking is arriving it may not be amiss to refer to our digital arrangements with reference to the venerable custom of paw-squeezing. First, there is the one-finger variety—significant of extreme condescension and high-nightsness. When an exalted individual permits you his forefinger, he distinctly says, semaphorically, that you must not presume on the slightest familiarity. You are in the presence of Augustus, and the delicate little ceremony is intended to impress you with the important fact. Then there is the two-finger variety. This is condescension also, but of a milder type. It is leavened with a touch of kindness. Still, you must not presume. This variety is much affected by aged persons and other venerable by-gones to their parishioners and dependents, old uncles to their nephews, and so on. The three-fingered sort adds another increment of favor, condescension having almost vanished, but not quite. Much, however, depends upon the vitality of the touch. If alive and conscious, it may be almost friendly. If flabby, trust it not. Talking of a flabby hand-shaking seems slightly contradictory, for no possible shake, not to say shock, can come out of such a salute. In perfection, the flabby sort consists of all four fingers laid flatly together, and held forth with about the same amount of significance as the paw of a rabbit or the fin of a sea-lion. The correct way of meeting this variety is by accepting it in precisely the same style. Two flat four-fingered fists thus meeting each must be thrilling in the extreme. But when this flat sort is moreover clammy, it is the very abyss of cold-blooded formality, absolutely insulting, not to say sickening, in its very touch. But the jolly, hearty, soul-stirring, sharp squeeze, accompanied by a kindly glance of a friendly eye, tells more than a whole vocabulary can do; it electrifies the system of him he gives and who returns; it speaks to the soul and remains trembling all through the vitality like the sweet strains of the Eolian harp.

The Riverside Guards have secured the Reno Orchestra for their 4th of July ball.

Judge King has appointed Jerry Schooling, W. F. Berry and Allan C. Bragg appraisers of the estate of the late David McFarland.

Mr. Otto Hartung has placed us under obligations for a sample box of crackers from the Nevada Cracker Factory. No better crackers are made anywhere.

Church Notices.

It is our pleasure to announce that Rev. A. B. Palmer will address all interested in Sunday School works (and all should be) Sunday evening at the Methodist Episcopal Church. ## Pyramid.

The news from Pyramid mining camp is of an encouraging character. The Crown Prince, Roma Union and Globe mines employ a number of men, while prospecting is being extensively carried on by every man who can get credit for hardluck and beans. Mr. Jones yesterday brought in one hundred pounds of ore from the Globe, which he will take to Virginia to-day and have it worked. He says it is genuine feldspar and filled with chloride.

Overdone.

A Wood River correspondent of the Eureka Leader says there are 150 men there to one job, and thinks that in another month there will be two hundred. Next year may find the country sufficiently developed to make it a really lively district.

Hatch vs. N. &amp; O. R. R.

A Comstock Map.

Reduction.

On and after June 1st the Sacramento Record-Union will be delivered by carrier for fifteen cents per week.

Changed Time.

The Reno and Quincy stage has changed time, and now runs through in a day, arriving in Quincy on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and leaving on the alternate days. This pleases the National, which says: "This puts us again one day nearer the world as far as mails are concerned, and another month will give us a daily mail. We are glad to note this sign of improvement, and hope that the day is not far distant when the iron horse will close up the gap and bring us still nearer the centers of life and bustle."

Late in the Season.

The Lander Free Press thinks the Trustees of the Nevada Agricultural Association have erred in deciding to hold the State Fair in October. It does not believe the Fair will ever be numerously attended while it is held during the season of cold and disagreeable winds, which invariably sweep down the Truckee during the month of October. It asks: "Why not have it a month earlier?"

Tom Barnett intends to give the people a benefit, no more nor less than a grand clearance sale of his immense stock of boots and shoes, furnishing goods, etc. The sale will commence on the 4th of June and continue ninety days.

Senator Shepherd and Ben Fitch are in the field for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff of Elko. Whew!
